This is one small step for Comeau Aerospace Inc. a giant step for cleaning up the mess that everyone has left behind...space junk. This offer is open world wide to all those who have ideas on cleaning up space and all that space junk floating around that nobody really takes responsibility for the material.

Endless radar telemetry and tracking of objects, many of which can cost an incredible magnitude of money, time, resources and energy in damages, is not the way to go. Send in the clean up crew, search and clean, not search and destroy. Having space free of dangerous objects helps everyone, just as free time allows us to rest, use our imagination and do something productive, constructive, profitable, enjoyable...now isn't that a great idea?

Of course from another point of view, we expect and believe that a massive increase in dangerous objects will be evident in the future, and the capabilities are needed now to clean up the mess that exists now, not too mention what may exist in the future.

So now, everyone and anyone can chip in as an incredible range of services of modern life are possible because of space capabilities, so it is essential that we make progress in cleaning up the mess regardless of who did what when...like the neighbourhood and garbage alongside the street or highway...we all can take part and make the quality of life, and the beauty of the environment better and cleaner by simple everyday conscientious thought and action, and going the extra mile (not a galactic mile) for a good cause.
